

Preparing Transition Age Youth with Autism for College and Employment

October 12, 2016 – PaTTAN Pittsburgh
October 12, 2016 – Northwest Tri-County IU 5
October 13, 2016 – PaTTAN Harrisburg
November 15, 2016 – Kings College, Wilkes Barre
December 1, 2016 – Philadelphia School District

9:00 am – 3:00 pm

This training will cover definitions of neurodiversity, as well as the challenges, and opportunities regarding college and employment of students with Autism. SAP, the global leader in enterprise software, will discuss trends among high profile employers and the creation of successful workforce programs. We will also offer an overview on training modules informed by the work at SAP. These materials provide practical approaches to preparing students for college and employment. Presenters will share the specifics of the new Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act as well as the role the Office for Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) plays in Secondary Transition, Early Reach, and Pre-Employment Transition Services.

Participants will:

- Define practical strategies for preparing students for college or employment
- Utilize lessons learned which can be used by guidance counselors, secondary transition coordinators and teachers
- Identify trends among high profile employers including the participation of industry representatives who have created successful workforce programs
- Develop a template for this training program through its work with SAP, the global leader in enterprise software
- Identify collaborations among schools, employers, and Office of Vocational Rehabilitation which support the preparation of students for college and employment

Presenters:
Tanya Regli, Executive Director, The Arc of Philadelphia

Jose Velasco, Vice-President of Operations and Strategy and co-leads the Autism at Work program globally at SAP

Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Representative
